Teutonic Forces Massed.

Austrian and German forces, with heavy artillery, have been concentrated at Trent, Bozen and Meran. Movements of considerable bodies of troops are reported from Munich. The theory is advanced that Germany and Austria expect to break through the Italian frontier defences and carry the fighting into Italian territory. Italian troops are massed in great numbers, however, along the same front.

There are large accumulations of Austrian troops in the upper valley of the Adige River and the Schulden valley, coming from Innsbruck, and also at Glurns. They are accompanted by many German officers.

A flotilla of Austrian seroplanes from Goritz, Austria, is patrolling the frontier above Isonzo. It is said two of the air scouts have flown over Italian territory.

In the extended plains of Friuli, stretching along the sea, Italian sentinels near the frontier can see the ruins of Aquilela, a second Rome, founded by the Romans in 181 B. C. This city, which was twenty miles in clreumference and had 600,000 inhabitants, formed a bulwark against the Celts and Istrians. The Italian army officers have great difficulty in restraining the soldiers from crossing the frontier here, the men being anxious to reconquer Friuli, from which came Berengarius, the first King of Italy.

Alpine troops with mounted artillery have been intrusted to check any Austrian flank attack from Mount Coglio, in the Carso range. It is said that the Austrians have threatened to flood Eastern Friuli with the Isonzo River, many canals having been constructed in that section for irrigation, but experts do not consider that this would be practicable.

Rome (via Paris), May 21.-The Italian Senate this evening, by a vote of 262 to 2, passed the bill of Premier Salandra granting plenary powers to the government in dealing with the exmela, famous for his special movable fortifications.

The general opinion is that it would be almost impossible for decisive action through the well fortified Alpine regions of the Province of Trent, where an attack would have as its only object the keeping there of a large contingent of hostile troops. For the same reason, a landing of Italian troops might occur on the Dalmatian coast, it is said, or some contingent might go to help Montenegro and Serbia resume their offensive.

If Italy and Austria go to war the ronflet may find its solution in the valley of the Isonzo River, in Eastern Friuli, according to military critics. The next morning he awoke to find Ypres without any authority, and not liking that he set about governing it himself. He kept eleven citizens under iron discipline. He had looters shot at sight, and, though himself inclined to the bottle, prevented drunkenness in others.

"They called him 'Le Roi d'Ypres,' but his kingship lasted only a week. A callous court martial tried him and found his efforts in the cause of order had been good, and forgave his other delinquencies."
